HiSET: Frequently Asked Questions

What is the difference between the HiSET and GED?
Both are tests you can take in order to receive your diploma or certificate indicating you have earned your high school equivalency credential. While there are some differences between the tests, they are equally accepted and recognized by employers and schools.

Can I take the test without taking classes?
Yes, there is no requirement to take classes prior to taking the test. To sign up for the exam, you must create an account and can search for test centers at: www.hiset.ets.org

What are classes like?
Classes will cover concepts for each subject on the test, with in-class hands-on work, homework, and practice tests. We also go over test strategies. We offer the flexibility to pick and choose which subjects you need extra help preparing for.

If I take classes, do I have to register for all of the subjects?
No. You have the option to sign up for any or all of the subjects that we offer. There is no required order in which you have to take them (but we generally recommend taking Writing and Reading first, especially if English is not your first language). We also offer classes all throughout the year, so you could choose to take one set of subjects now, and then the rest the next session we offer it.

If I take classes, when do I take the exam?
The exam consists of 5 subjects: math, writing, reading, science, and social studies. Everything is multiple choice, except for the writing, which consists of multiple choice questions, and an essay. Each test subject can be scheduled individually. Once you finish your prep class for any given subject, we’ll give an assessment to measure your progress. We can make general recommendations whether we think you are ready, but ultimately, it’s up to each individual when s/he feels ready to take each test subject. We will walk you through the process to schedule your exams.

Where can I take the exam?
There are Test Centers all across the State for you to choose. Roxbury Community College is a testing site for the HiSET exam; separate exam fees apply. Each Test Center has their own schedule for available test dates.
*Please note that testing schedules and policies are subject to change under current COVID-19 conditions.

What if I have to miss a class?
There is limited time each week to cover a lot of important material for the test. Please make every effort to try to attend all classes, show up on time, and stay for the whole class – this is an investment in yourself! There will be no make-up classes if you miss a class; you are responsible for reaching out to your instructor or your classmates to ask about missed material.

Am I required to purchase a book for the classes?
No. Our instructors will provide all material for you during the classes. Students should use these prep courses to supplement their own ongoing studying and exam preparations.

Once I finish and receive my diploma, will you help me apply to the College?
Yes! Our RCC Admissions team will walk you through the process and discuss next steps, if that is your goal.
